

Global Garden Days

growing and learning together

now booking for 2017-18

Want to bring your school gardening alive?

Looking for a cross curricular learning project?

Keen to encourage outdoor learning?

A Global Garden Day could be just what you need...

Global Garden Days are delivered in your school grounds by our team of trained practitioners and come as a complete package with pre- and post-learning to support your growing and learning.

Each project is designed to suit you, your learners, and your site. We can also tailor the day to meet specific curriculum needs or to link in with related initiatives/awards such as Eco-Schools, Food for Life, Global Learning, International Schools etc.

More information can be found on our website at:

Global Garden Days are offered by Lifeworlds Learning who deliver a variety of school based workshops and professional training for teachers.

Global Garden Days are subsidized by Lifeworlds Learning to leave you with a permanent learning resource and ongoing remote support for as little as £500* per school.

Due to the high input required for this project, we are limited to only 20 schools in 2017-18 so please book early to avoid disappointment. We recommend these days for Oct-April so that you are ready for growing in the spring.

*costs vary for larger/complex projects, but we will quote you before you commit. Costs are based on partnership working to obtain materials and do not include plants. A fully-serviced package with all materials and initial plants supplied is available on request.
